Insightful, Concise and a Fast Read By Mike W Accelerating Out of the Great Recession examines the state of the U S and world economy with precision and clarity providing an insightful reference work in just 190 pages including an extensive bibliography. The authors' research of winning strategies employed by companies to exploit growth opportunities in past recessions makes for a useful screen to find the new leaders in this one. Add the perspective of two international strategic management consultants, and you have a book well worth reading and adding to your library. 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. A Solid book Probably contains the most up-to-date and complete insights about current recession. I'm giving it only four, because to the end it becomes extremely boring by repeating general truths; also sometimes found that the book states something, but leaves the statement without any solid evidence or reasoning flow (we are just supposed to believe to the authors). 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. "What better opportunity than now to strengthen your business and come out of the recession even stronger? David Rhodes and Daniel Stelter provide an easy-to-understand perspective on the current economic environment, and some practical strategies to help readers come out ahead. A timely read for all who care about their business." —Paul Polman, CEO, Unilever "This is the most comprehensive assessment of the global economy that I've seen and is a must-read for any business, economic, or governmental-related leader". Jeff M. Fettig, Chairman CEO, Whirlpool Corporation "A fascinating account of the causal factors of the meltdown and what we can do to avoid repetition." Sanjay Khosla, Executive Vice President and President, International for Kraft Foods "This book combines brilliant analysis and strategic insight with a clear message: Companies that want to play a role in tomorrow's markets must act immediately. There's no place for complacency. The opportunities in the post-crisis world are good—and better than many might think." Dr. Jürgen Hambrecht, CEO, BASF "The lessons from companies that came out winners during past recessions are invaluable in the current context. Rhodes and Stelter strike a welcome note of optimism in today's tough times by showing that companies can do a lot to thrive when the global economy is struggling." Dr. Dieter Zetsche, CEO, Daimler "There are great lessons for today's chief executives: well-managed companies can prosper in the downturn and accelerate faster than their competitors in the upturn. Rhodes and Stelter have dug deep into history to vividly show how companies can do it." Dr. Martin C. Halusa, CEO, Apax Partners Worldwide LLP From the world's leading business strategy consultancy comes this essential guide to prospering in the aftermath of what is being called the Great Recession Accelerating Out of the Great Recession, by The Boston Consulting Group's David Rhodes and Daniel Stelter, is a call to action for today's executives. It shows how companies can win in a slow-growth economy by seizing the initiative—differentiating themselves from less fleet-footed rivals and executing their strategies with single-minded determination. It combines comprehensive and big-picture analysis of the global economic meltdown with smart management advice on how to win in an era of greater competition. The book is underpinned by a historical review of great companies that survived and thrived in past downturns, along with two new surveys of top executives and insights drawn from discussions with corporate leaders around the world. As such, it offers the clearest, most authoritative assessment yet of some present-day trends and "new realities"—and what they mean for business. Accelerating Out of the Great Recession shows today's executives how to: Learn from the decisive actions taken by companies such as General Electric, IBM, and Procter Gamble in order to accelerate out of past downturns Take the fight to your competitors—diversify and expand now, while other businesses are affected by the downtown Shake off conventional wisdom to protect and grow your market share Develop a new managerial mindset for today's tough times Backed by exceptional research and outstanding, up-to-the-minute advice, Accelerating Out of the Great Recession explains the magnitude and enduring nature of changes that have taken place in the global economy and how you can outperform today to create and sustain an advantage over your competitors for the long haul.

Halusa, CEO, Apax Partners Worldwide LLP About the Author David Rhodes is currently a missionary with SonSet Solutions where he has served for seven years at their facility in Elkhart, Indiana in the capacity of Operations Manager and Projects Coordinator. He is a former Kids Alive International missionary where he served for nine years at the Lima Children's Home in Lima, Peru in the capacity of Maintenance and Construction Supervisor. His responsive readings are a result of an opportunity that began five years ago to present scripture reading with application during worship service at his church. Wanting to give the congregation the opportunity to verbalize

God's Word, he began to incorporate responsive readings. He found, though, that there was a limited source of scriptural responsive readings and those available to present were rarely in a contemporary version. As a result, he began his own arrangements using the World English Bible and its Messianic Edition.
