While this book did give information on IBD, it never got into anything I found helpful in really using to pick stocks. All the author did was present information I already knew by reading IBD myself. Also this was not a pure IBD product the author attempted to mix in several authors advice and techniques into this work by quoting them verbatim. The book was very dry and hard to read and I do not think beginners or veteran traders will find it helpful. It was written by a doctor, who may be a great trader, but I did not like his writing style. I would advise reading all of William O'Neal's book and stick with IBD alone to teach you. Find your stock picks in the IBD 100, you do not need this book. 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Long Winded-But Necessary By MA If you are totally new to investing then you should start with "24 Essential Lessons to Investment Success" "How to make Money in stocks", both by William O'Neil. If after reading those books part of the Investment Business Daily newspaper makes no sense, I recommend this book. Once you feel successful and comfortable in the stocks you pick, you would want to understand the whole picture. Though this book will confuse you in the beginning and I agree with many of the reviews, remember it is a brake down of the newspaper and how you can use each part of it to understand everything of the market and how Investment Business Daily feeds you that information. I strongly recommend it. Puts together the Big Market picture from the pages of the Investors Business Daily paper. It should glue together some loose ends. His first sentence will suffice to show you what I'm talking about: 'Investors Business Daily is designed and structured to an expository financial newspaper whose primary purpose is to convey understanding.' What the hell is he talking about? Convey understanding OF WHAT? Why say 'designed' and 'structured' in the same phrase? Why use an unnecessary ten dollar word like 'expository'? what else is a newspaper going to use but exposition? why can't Sethna just say something like "Investor's Business Daily is designed to be brief--to cut through the mass of financial information out there to give you the essentials you need to make money in the Market." this one sentence covers the meaning of his entire first page and a half. I'm not going to copy it all for you to torture yourself with, but I assure you it's nine sentences worth of the same rambling, beat-around-the-intellectual-bush, latinate trash. Sure, if you're WILLING to concentrate hard enough you can decipher the meaning of Sethna's convoluted, bloodless, long-winded writing style--but WHY BOTHER? I found Sethna's book unnecessarily vague and difficult to read. I graduated with honors from university but I guess I'm not bright enough to read such needlessly rambling junk; I'm certainly not PATIENT enough to put up with a guy who writes a whole book without giving a damn whether or not he actually communicates anything beyond the size of his own vocabulary. Maybe you've got that kind of patience, but if there's one thing I hate, it's an intelligent guy who's a horrible unclear writer. It makes me suspect that under his mass of education, he's really a murky unclear thinker. If you want to make money, if you want a fun read, if you want to LEARN and REMEMBER what in God's name you're reading, buy and read William O'Neil's 'How to make money in the stock market' 'IBD's guide to High performance investing' and IBD's guide to the Markets'. These books are fun, they're easy to read, they explain CANSLIM clearly. These books will help you make money and they will teach you in such a way that you can pass on what you learn to those you love--so they too can tap into the great source of modern wealth that is the stock market. 'Guide to the Markets' is loaded with graphics from IBD to help you understand it better. Don't buy this book. A poorly written rag on a very important subject. Any one of IBD's regular newspapermen could have done a far better job. I wish one of them would.
