Doctor, hockey world champion, Member of Parliament, state cricketer, winning coach best-selling authorhellip;the list of this remarkable man's achievements are little short of astonishing. In his latest literary offering, World's Best, Ric Charlesworth gives us a clear understanding of what makes players and teams not just hockey teams exceptional. It is this quest for 'exceptionality' that Charlesworth meticulously and unflinchingly deconstructs, creating a picture where every piece of the jigsaw whether its tactics, determination, team culture or simply brilliant skills plays its role in creating a masterpiece. Drawing on impossibly rich experiences in the sporting field, Charlesworth transports the reader on a fascinating and at times heart-breaking journey of success and failure. From the disappointment of the Kookaburras 2012 London Olympics campaign to the soaring elation of winning the World Cup in The Hague two years later through to the sustained brilliance of the Hockeyroos, World's Best masterfully plots hockey's evolution in eloquent detail. Charlesworth's record is unsurpassed by any other coach or team in the history of the sport, a giant of sporting achievement, success and innovation. As with everything this favourite son of WA has done he has given us yet another piece of brilliance a truly exceptional Australian.

"Ric is one of the best coaches ever produced in any sport in Australia. 'World's Best' challenges you to think about the things that help teams win in the toughest competitions in his sport. The lessons and ideas are relevant to coaches, players and all lovers of sport. Beyond tactics and technique player management, motivation and connections make the difference. This book explains why this is so." - WAYNE BENNETT...SEVEN TIMES PREMIERSHIP COACH IN THE NRL. "As a player I aspired to be Allan Border, Steve Waugh or Viv Richards; as a coach I aspire to be like Ric Charlesworth." - JUSTIN LANGER...HEAD COACH WESTERN AUSTRALIAN CRICKET ASSOCIATION
